

LIFE THROUGH THE LENS

DNA OF LOVE

Ever felt like you are standing all alone? Buffeted by life? Circumstances pushing you around? Wanting someone to put an arm around you; physically or mentally and say, “I’m here!”

Look at the picture. Why have the creepers that supports that delicate flower wrapped themselves around themselves? Two reasons; one for support. Two; it is in the DNA of the plant. It can not grow any other way.

The God I trust is like that. Loving; supportive; caring; interested in me: interested in you; 24X7.

Love is not WHO my God is; it’s WHAT He is. It says so in His book. Check it out 1 John chapter four, verse 8.

There are times when it may not look like “He loves. He cares. He supports”. Stop! Think! Does a parent who loves their child and knowing what is best; safest: always give in to the wishes of the child? Of course not! When is a friend a “True” friend? You know! God and His love is like that.

The red flower; the colour of blood; the colour that ran from the hands of Jesus, His Son when He let be nailed on a cross so that if we trust Him we can be mates with Him. What He really wants is for us to say “OK God, I trust you. I do need your support, your care, your love to get me through this hour; this day; this week.....Thanks”.

Stay joined to God and your friends and family.
Cheers, Kevin
